A CERTAIN CURE

FOR THE RHEUMATISM.

POLYANDRIA,

OR,

The Essential OIL of the Cajiput Tree

A MEDICINE,

UNIVERSALLY esteemed among the East Indians, as a safe and certain cure for the Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Epilepsey, &c. restoring vigor after laxations and sprains, giving relief in pains of the head and neck, toothach, &c. and since it has been introduced into England (which is of very late date) has been highly recommended, by some of the most eminent physicians in London, as the best and most effectual remedy for the Gout as well as the Rheumatism, by dissolving the Coagulated Lymph, of which these diseases are formed. In wounded tendons it is of the greatest use by preventing the juice which oozes out of them from fixing. Bruizes and sprains it infallibly cures, for it keeps the extravasated Lymph and blood perfectly dissolved, and prevents their fixing in the interstices of the vessels, till nature either takes them up by the refluent blood, or expels them through the pores of the skin.

Long contracted sprains are removed by it, and it is of the utmost service for the cramp and numbness, stiffness, or weakness of the joints. It is a most efficacious remedy for burns and scalds, extracting the fire very soon, and if used immediately, will entirely prevent them from blistering. It is excellent for a fresh cut. It is of infinite use for the sting of wasps, &c. bite of rattlesnakes, gnats and other venomous animals and other insects.

The above Valuable Medicine, has been but lately introduced into Europe and America in consequence of the Tree from which it is produced, yielding its essential Oil, but in small quantities, and this chiefly monopolized by the government, owing to the great virtue it was found to possess, in the cure of Rheumatisms, &c. the proprietor has divided the original packages, and put it up in smaller bottles made for the purpose, with directions round each bottle, signed in his own hand writing; and in order to demonstrate its vast importance, has tho't proper to submit for public inspection, the following out of the numerous cures, which by this valuable MEDICINE, has been performed since its general use in this country.

Letter from Mr. JAS. WOODMAN, near Norfolk, to Mr. C. MULLIN.

JULY 23, 1813.

DEAR SIR—My son has been more than 8 years afflicted with a Rheumatic Complaint. The excessive pain he constantly endured, reduced him to a mere skeleton; and from extreme weakness occasioned even the joints of his legs to turn out of their sockets. A very eminent physician at Norwich, whom I consulted, informed me nothing could be done for him, and the faculty in general considered him beyond the reach of medicine. He remained in this desperate situation, till the 19th Oct. last, when I was advised to try your "Essential Oil of the Cajiput Tree." Accordingly by persevering in the use of it, his joints are returned to their proper places, and he is now able to walk 10 miles with the greatest ease. Upwards of fifty respectable persons in this town, have been at my house to see my son, all who knew him, thought it impossible he ever could recover.

I am, dear sir,
Your greatly obliged friend,
JAMES WOODMAN.

Broomsgrove, Jan. 4, 1814.

SIR—I have been violently afflicted with a Rheumatic Complaint; even my fingers were so contracted, that I could neither dress nor undress myself, or give the least assistance to my family.

I have only used one bottle of the Essential Oil of the Cajiput Tree, and by it I am perfectly restored.

Yours, &c.
E. HOUGHTON.

December 20, 1813.

SIR—A severe stroke of the palsy, 6 months ago, deprived me of my speech and the use of one side. In this desperate situation, the Oil of Cajiput Tree, was strongly recommended, and I thank GOD, as successfully applied. By persevering in its use a short time, I was completely restored and continue to enjoy the perfect use of my faculties, although near 80 years of age.

Yours, &c.
W. FRANCIS.

No. 14, Arabello Row, Pimlico.

☞ Mr. FRANCIS has held a public situation at the Guildhall of the City of Westminster, many years, and is well known to the generality of the respectable inhabitants.

Witherslatch, near Kental, January 13, 1813.

SIR—I beg leave to inform you I have been several months past afflicted with such violent pains in my hips, thighs and legs, and swelling of my joints, that I could not rest day or night; nothing that was applied gave me any relief, till a neighbor informed me of the Oil of the Cajiput Tree, having performed many surprising cures, sent for a bottle to Mr. Mullin, which gave wonderful relief, and by repeating the same 2 or 3 times, I am perfectly cured, and am as well as ever I was in my life.

This I have publicly given under my hand, for the good of all sufferers in like circumstences.

Late and Extraordinary News from Europe.

On the 26th of April, arrived at New York, the fast sailing letter of marque schooner Sine Qua Non, Capt. Pond, in 25 days from Rochelle, France, from which he sailed on the 1st of April.—Capt. Pond furnished the Editors of the Mercantile Advertiser with a file of the Paris Moniteur to the 23d of March inclusive, containing the details of a most extraordinary event, of which translations follow.

From the Paris Moniteur, March 23.

The Emperor informed that the people in France had lost all their rights obtained by 25 years of battles and of victories, and that the army was attacked in its glory, determined to change this state of things, to re-establish the Imperial Throne which alone can guarantee the rights of the nation, and to extinguish this royal throne which the people had proscribed as not securing the interests but of a small number of individuals.

The Emperor left Elba on the 25th of February, at 5 in the afternoon, in a brig of 26 guns, with 400 of his guards, accompanied by three other vessels, having on board 200 infantry, 100 Polish light horse, and a battalion of flankers of 200 men. The day of sailing passed the French brig of war Zephyr, without suspicion. On the 28th, saw a 74, which took no notice of the brig. On the 1st of March, the Emperor arrived in the Bay of Juan, where he landed at 5 in the afternoon, and encamped on the seashore until the rising of the moon. At 11 o'clock, he put himself at the head of his handful of brave men and proceeded to Cannes—from thence to Grasse and through St. Vallier, and arrived in the evening of the 3d at the village of Cerenon, having marched the first day 20 leagues. The manner in which he was received by the people of Cannes gave the Emperor the first presage of the success of the enterprise On the night of the 3d he slept at Bareme. On the 4th he dined at Dignie. From Castellane to Dignie, and throughout the department of the lower Alps, the peasants informed of the march of the Emperor, assembled from every direction upon his route, and manifested sentiments which left no doubt of his success. On the 5th Gen. Cambronne, with an advance guard of 40 grenadiers, took possession of the bridge and fortress Sisteron. On the same day the Emperor slept at Gap, with 10 horsemen and 40 grenadiers. The enthusiasm which the presence of the Emperor inspired the inhabitants, the hatred which they had felt to nobility was a proof of the sentiments of the province of Dauphine.

At Gap thousands of copies of proclamations were printed and addressed by the Emperor to the army and to the people, and by the soldiers of the guards to their comrades. These proclamations were circulated with the rapidity of lightning. On the afternoon of the 6th, the Emperor left Gap accompanied by the whole population of the city. At night he slept at Gorp. The 40 men of the advanced guard of Gen. Cambronne proceeded to Muse, where they fell in with the van of a division of 7000 troops of the line, coming from Grenoble to oppose their march. Gen. C. wanted to parley with the advanced posts. They answered that they were forbidden to hold any communication. However this van fell back 3 leagues, and took a position between the lakes at the village of ——. The Emperor informed of this circumstance, rode to the spot, where he found 7 or 800 troops, dismounted his horse, made himself known, and said, that "the first soldier who chose to kill his Emperor might do so." The unanimous cry was, long live the Emperor. This regiment had been commanded by the Emperor during his first campaigns in Italy. These troops embraced the followers of the Emperor, and instantly tore from their hats the white cockade, and replaced them with the tricoloured. The Emperor then addressed them, after which they demanded to be the first to march against the division which covered Grenoble. They began their march, in the midst of a crowd of inhabitants, which increased every moment.—The Emperor marched towards Grenoble, and, on his way, a whole regiment came over to him, commanded by Col. Cabedoyere. At 9 in the evening, the Emperor entered one of the suburbs of Grenoble. The troops within the gates of the city consisted of about 6000 in number, among them a regiment, in which 25 years before, the Emperor had been made a captain. The national guards and the whole population of Grenoble, were behind the garrison, and rent the air with cries of long live the Emperor. The gates were burst open, and at 10, the Emperor entered the city in the midst of an army and a people animated with the most lively enthusiasm. The next day he reviewed the troops, in the midst of the population of the whole department, who cried "down with the Bourbons! down with the enemies of the people!—long live the Emperor, and a government of our own choice!" The garrison of Grenoble immediately afterwards proceeded by forced marches towards Lyons. From Grenoble to Lyons the march of the Emperor was like a triumph. During this time the Count D'Artois, the Duke of Orleans, and several Marshals, had reached Lyons.—Money was lavished among the troops, and promises made to the officers, but to no purpose. The Emperor entered Lyons on the 10th at the head of troops sent out to oppose him, and was received with every demonstration of joy.—The Count D'Artois quitted Lyons escorted by a single gen d'arme!

On the 11th the Emperor reviewed the troops at Lyons, and, with Gen. Brayer at their head, began his march.

On the 13th he arrived at Villa Franche—on the 15th at Autun—on the 16th at Avallon, and on the 17th at Auxenne, where he was joined by the Prince of Moskwa, who had mounted the tricoloured cockade. The Emperor arrived at Fontainbleau the 20th, at 4 o'clock, A. M. At 7 he learned that the Bourbons had left Paris, and the capital was free. He departed immediately, and entered the Thuilleries at 8 o'clock, P. M. at a moment when he was least expected.

Thus terminates, without one obstacle to oppose it, without shedding one drop of blood, an enterprise which has re-established the nation in its rights, in its glory, and which has wiped off the foul stain which had been stamped by treason and the presence of a foreigner. Thus is verified this passage in the address of the Emperor to the troops,—"That the eagle with the national colours would fly from steeple to steeple, even to the turrets of Notre Dame." In 18 days the brave battalion of the guard has passed the distance between the gulph of Juan and Paris, a distance which, on ordinary occasions would occupy 45 days to accomplish.

Arrived at the gates of Paris, the Emperor was met by the whole of the army commanded by the Duke of Berri; officers, soldiers, generals—the light infantry, the infantry of the line, lancers, dragoons, cuirassiers, artillery, all came to present themselves before their general, whom the choice of the people and the vows of the army, had elevated to the imperial throne—the tricoloured cockade was taken from their knapsacks and placed in the hat of every soldier.—They trod in the dust the white cockade which, for 25 years, has been the rallying signal to the enemies of France and her people.

On the 21st, at 1 o'clock, noon, the Emperor reviewed the troops which composed the army of Paris. The whole capital is a witness of the effusions of enthusiasm and attachment, which burst from these gallant soldiers. They had all reconquered their country! They had all been emancipated from oppression! They had all found in the national colours the remembrance of those generous sentiments which have always distinguished the French nation. After the Emperor had passed through the ranks, the troops were formed into hollow squares by battalions.

"Soldiers, (said the Emperor) with 600 men I have entered France, because I relied upon the love of my people, and upon the affectionate remembrance of my old soldiers; I have not been deceived in my expectations: Soldiers! I thank you for it. Let the glory of what has been done be ascribed to the people and to you; mine is complete in having known you and appreciated your merits.

Soldiers! the throne of the Bourbons was an illegitimate throne; inasmuch as it was elevated by foreign influence; inasmuch as it had been proscribed by the vow of a whole nation expressed by all our national assemblies—in short, because it afforded no security whatever, except indeed, to the interests of a small number of arrogant men, whose haughty pretensions are directly opposed to our rights. Soldiers! the imperial throne can alone secure the rights of the people, and above all our chief interests—our glory. Soldiers! we are about to march to drive from our territories those foreign allies. The nation will not only follow us with its vows, but even themselves obey the impulse. The French people and your Emperor calculate upon you—we do not wish to interfere with the affairs of foreign nations, but wo to them that interfere with ours."

This speech was received with a general acclamation. Shortly after Gen. Combronne and the officers of the guards of the battalion from the island of Elba appeared, decorated with the Eagle, the ancient badge of distinction. The Emperor resumed his address.

"Behold the officers of the battalion who have accompanied me in my misfortunes. They are all my friends.—They are very dear to me. Every time I saw them they reminded me of the different regiments of the army; for among these 600 brave fellows there are men from every regiment. They all reminded me of those great and glorious days of which the recollection is so soothing; for all of them are covered with wounds received in those memorable battles. In loving them it was you soldiers whom I loved! They have brought back to you these Eagles. May they always be the rallying point. In presenting them to the guard, I give them to the whole army. Treachery and some unfortunate events have sullied their lustre! But thanks to the French people and to you, they shine resplendent with all their former glory. Swear that they shall be found wherever the interests of their country demands them. That traitors and those who would invade our land shall never be able to look upon them.

"We swear it"—cried they with the greatest enthusiasm. The troops afterwards marched off to the sound of musick which played the popular air of "Viellons an Salut di l'Empire."

GULPH OF JUAN, March 1, 1815.

NAPOLEON, by the Grace of God, and the Constitution of the State, Emperor of the French, &c.

SOLDIERS!—We have not been vanquished. Two men deserting our ranks, have betrayed our laurels, their country, their Prince, their Benefactors.

Those whom we have seen, during 25 years, travelling all Europe to excite enemies against us, who have passed their lives in fighting against us in the ranks of foreign armies, while loading with curses our beautiful France, shall they pretend to command and enchain our Eagles, they who have never dared to encounter the sight of them? Shall we suffer them to inherit the fruits of our glorious achievements, to engross our honors, our wealth, to calumniate our glory? If their reign should continue every thing would be lost, even the remembrance of those immortal victories. With what fury do they pervert them? They endeavor to poison what the world admires; and if there still remain any defenders of our glory, it is among those very enemies whom we have encountered on the field of battle.

SOLDIERS! In my exile, I have heard your voice; I have arrived in spite of every obstacle and danger. Your General, called to the throne by the choice of the people, and borne on your shields, is restored to you. Come and join him. Tear off those colors which the nation has prescribed, & which during 25 years served as a rallying point to all the enemies of France. Assume this three-coloured cockade, you wore it during our days of victory.

We should forget that we have been the Master of Nations; but we ought not to suffer any other nation to intermeddle with our affairs.

Who shall pretend to be master among us? Who has the power? Re-assume those Eagles, which were yours at Ulm, Austerlitz, Jena, Eslau, Friedland, Judella, Eckmuhl, Essling, Wagram, Smolensk, Moscow, Lutzen, Vurken and at Montmirail. Think you, that this handful of Frenchmen, now so arrogant, would venture to encounter the sight of them? Let them return from whence they came, and there if they choose, let them reign, as they have pretended to reign during 19 years.

Your property, your rank, and your glory, the property, the rank and the glory of your children, have no greater enemies than those Princes whom strangers have imposed upon us. They are the enemies of our glory; and their condemnation is sealed by the recital of so many heroic deeds, which have immortalized the French people while struggling to throw off their yoke.

The veterans of the armies of the Sambre and Meuse, of the Rhine, of Italy, of Egypt, of the West, and of the Grand Army, are all humbled; the glory of their wounds are tarnished, their victories are crimes, these brave men are rebels, if, as the enemies of the people pretend, legitimate Sovereigns were found in the midst of foreign armies.

They bestow honors, rewards, their affections, on those who have served against their country, and against us.

SOLDIERS! Rally under the standard of your chief. His existence is yours. His rights are no other than those of the people and yours. His interest, honour and glory, are no other than your interest, honor and glory. Victory shall march with the rapidity of an army rushing to the combat. The Eagle with the national colors, shall fly from steeple to steeple, until it reaches the towers of Notre Dame; then you may show with pride your wounds; then you may boast of your achievements. You will be the saviours of your country. In your old age, surmounted by your fellow citizens, they will hear you with respect relating your exploits. You will have it in you power to say with pride—"and also, I was one of the Grand Army which twice entered the walls of Vienna, those of Rome, of Berlin, of Madrid, of Moscow, and which rescued Paris from the disgrace which treason and the presence of the enemy had enstamped upon it."

Honor to these brave Soldiers, the glory of the country! Eternal shame to those criminal Frenchmen, in whatever rank or station they may have been born, who for 25 years have fought under foreign banners to tear the bosom of their country.

PARIS, MARCH 23.

We are assured that the Empress Maria Louisa, and the young prince her son, will arrive in Paris by the 4th April next. Marshal Ney, prince of Moskwa, arrived in Paris yesterday at 5 o'clock.

MARCH 24.

His majesty, has named the duke of Vicence, (Caimcourt) minister of the exterior.

We learn from Florence, that Madame, mother of the Emperor, and the princess Eliza, his sister, who had remained at Porto Ferrajo, have landed at Viareggio, not far from Lucca.

It is known that the Emperor Alexander has paid several visits to the empress Maria Louisa; and at each time embraced tenderly the young King of Rome.

His majesty, held yesterday, a Grand Levee, which was attended by the prince Arch-Chancellor, the principal officers of the crown, a number of the marshals, ministers of state, &c.

His majesty has lost nothing of his extraordinary activity. Since his arrival in Paris, he has continued to arrange public affairs generally till midnight.

The Grenadiers and Chasseurs of the guard, which accompanied his majesty to Paris, have all received the decoration of the Legion of Honor.

The Gens. Lallemand, brothers, who were arrested at La Fere, have been set at liberty, and have already arrived at Paris, to receive the reward of their fidelity.

The English ambassador is still here.

By letters from Strasbourg, we learn that marshal duke D'Albufera, has taken measures to guarantee the frontiers from foreign invasion, and to put the strong posts in a proper state of defence.

The Austrian troops at Kiel are perfectly quiet.

The Duke of Orleans, arrived at Lille on the 19th: he was accompanied by marshal Mortier, duke of Treviso; Lt Gen. Dufour, commandant of that division, and the prefect M. Simeos.

The Duchess of Angouleme, has retired to Spain, where it is supposed, she will fix her residence.

BRUSSELS, March 13.

A corps of Prussian troops, is assembling at St. Vith, in the province of Luxemburgh. The troops upon the Mosselle, are also in motion. The reasons of these movements are not well known.

DECLARATION

Sent to H. R. H. the Duke of Angouleme, by the Count D'Osmand, Ambassador from France at Turin.

The powers which signed the treaty at Paris, convened in general Congress at Vienna, having been informed of the invasion of Napoleon, and of his entry, sword in hand, into France, owe it to their own dignity, and to the interests of social order, a solemn declaration of the sentiments which that event has caused them to entertain. In thus breaking the convention which established him at the Island of Elba, Bonaparte destroys the only legal title to which his existence could lay claim. In re appearing in France with projects to disturb and confuse, he has deprived himself of the protection of the laws, and has manifested in the face of the universe, that there can be no safety in having a peace or truce with him. The powers declare in consequence, that Napoleon Bonaparte has placed himself out of all civil and social relations: and, that as the enemy and disturber of the repose of the world, he is delivered up to the vindictive public. They declare at the same time, that firmly resolved to maintain inviolate the treaty of Paris of the 30th of May, 1814, the dispositions sanctioned by that treaty, and all those which they have, and which they shall yet agree upon to complete and consolidate it, they will employ all their means and will unite all their efforts, in order that the general peace, the object of all the views of Europe, and constant end of their labours, be not disturbed anew; and in order to guarantee it from all attempts which shall threaten to replunge the people in the disorders and miseries of revolutions; and, though intimately persuaded, that France entire, will again rally itself around its legitimate sovereign, to render nugatory this last attempt of a criminal and impotent delirium; all the sovereigns of Europe, animated with the same sentiments, guided by the same principles, declare, that if, contrary to every calculation, there should result from this event any real danger whatever, they will be ready to give to the king of France, and to the French nation, or to any of their allies, as soon as the demand shall be made, the necessary means, to re-establish the public tranquility and to make common cause against those who shall undertake to disturb it.

The present Declaration, inserted in the protocol of the Congress convened at Vienna, in the session of the 13th of March, 1815, shall be made public.

Signed at Vienna, on the 13th March 1815, by all the Plenipotentiaries who signed the treaty of Paris.

NEW-YORK, May 3.

Another arrival from France.

Last evening arrived at this port, the fast sailing ship Fingal, Stanton, in 31 days from Havre de Grace, which port he left on the 30th of March.

By this arrival, we learn verbally, that France was apparently in a state of tranquility; no part of the country had taken an active part for the Bourbons, which family left France for Flanders, and had arrived at Menin. Marseilles, Bordeaux, and other places, from which opposition was expected, had either acquiesced, or were perfectly tranquil.—The British minister had asked for and had obtained his passports to return to England. The Emperor Napoleon had issued a proclamation granting the British army in Belgium 14 days to evacuate it. A war between France and England was momently expected. Messrs. Gallatin, Adams, Bayard and Russell, were in Paris; Mr. Clay departed for England on the 19th of March.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE.

SATURDAY, MAY 13, 1815.

JOHN RANDOLPH is elected to Congress from Virginia, in opposition to JOHN W. EPPES, by a majority of 62 votes.

The first squadron destined against Algiers has been for some time assembled at New-York, waiting for a favorable wind to put to sea. It is understood Com. Decatur has requested to be relieved from the command before the winter, on account of his health, and that the government has assented to his wishes; he will in consequence return home in some vessel of the squadron before that period.

It is also understood, that William Shaler, Esq. with Commodores Bainbridge and Decatur, have been appointed joint commissioners to treat with the Dey of Algiers, should he be inclined to make pacific overtures.

It is said difficulties have arisen as to the mode of selecting officers to be retained on the military peace establishment, and in consequence, that an order has been issued from the war department continuing the army under the present arrangement, until further orders.

The brig Criterion arrived at N. York on the 3d inst. in 23 days from Lisbon, bringing an account that the news of the day at Lisbon, on the 8th of April, was, that there had been a refusal on the part of the Spanish soldiery to march at the orders of Ferdinand, unless he would sign the constitution—all was tumult and dismay at Madrid; it was said that Ferdinand had fled. The French vessels which were in the port of Lisbon, were afraid to go to sea, anticipating an immediate war with England. A letter had been received at Lisbon, from Mr. Gavino, at Algesiras, stating that the Algerines had passed the streights into the Atlantic.

TRIAL OF GEN. WILKINS

The General Court Martial, convened at Troy, in the state of New-York, for the Trial of Major General Wilkins, terminated its proceedings on the 5th March last. The publication in full of the charges and various specifications would occupy too great a portion of our paper. The following, however, comprehends the amount.

CHARGE I.

Neglect of duty and unofficer like conduct.

Specifications.—In unnecessarily laying and retarding the movement of troops under his command at Fort George from that post to Henderson's Bay, Sackett's Harbour, during the months of September and October 1813, by failing to make, or cause to be made, proper regulations for their embarkation and particularly by causing the said troops to return, after they had sailed from Fort George, under fictitious alarm for the safety of that post; to the detriment of the service. In not accompanying, as his duty required him to do, the movements of the said troops from Fort George to Sackett's Harbour.

In calling two councils of war in the month of November, 1813, during the expedition of the troops down the St. Lawrence, and submitting thereto the state of his provisions, (the presence of which had been previously ascertained by him) as a reason for discontinuing the expedition, to the great injury of the public service.

In failing to adopt such measures as were proper and practicable, on or about the 30th March, 1814, to reduce the British force at La Cole Mill, defended by a force of the enemy, greatly inferior to his own.

CHARGE II.

Drunkenness on duty.

Specification.—In being intoxicated by wine or spirituous liquor, on or about the 5th November, 1813, in the vicinity of Ogdensburgh, and while the fleet and army under his command, were preparing to pass, and were engaged in passing the enemy's fortress at Prescott, and to such a degree as to disqualify him from a correct, regular and faithful discharge of his duty as commanding general; thereby diminishing the confidence of the troops in their commander, and exposing the army to the hazard of disorder and defeat

CHARGE III.

Conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman.

Specifications.—In declaring on or about the 1st November, 1813, that his orders were positive to make Montreal the object of his attack, and that he had left nothing to his own choice; thereby wilfully and falsely misrepresenting the orders under which he acted.

In speaking disrespectfully and improperly of the army and service in which he was employed.

In being intoxicated on the 7th Nov. 1813, at the house of Daniel Thorpe, in the vicinity of Ogdensburgh, while commanding an army engaged in an important expedition, and while in this condition, singing in the presence of officers and others, an obscene and ludicrous song in relation to the said expedition, thereby disgracing his own character and bringing disgrace upon the character of the American army.

CHARGE IV.

Countenancing and encouraging disobedience of orders.

Specification.—In issuing a general order at Waterford, in the state of New York, on the 18th January, 1813, and communicating the same to Col. Simon Larned, intending to contravene and defeat an order given by the department of war, and communicated to the said Col. Larned, commanding at Greenbush, in York, thereby countenancing and encouraging subordinate officers to disobey orders from the war department, and particularly, that in relation to the duties to be imposed on prisoners of war, to the great detriment of the service, and the entire prostration of all military discipline.

The Court after maturely and deliberately weighing the facts adduced in evidence, decided, that no blame attached to the accused: and have adjudged and determined that he be, and is honorably acquitted of all, and every of the charges and specifications exhibited against him.

The sentence of the Court has been approved by the Secretary of War, and Major General Wilkins is released from arrest, and his sword restored.

Thus has ended at an immense expence to the government, this prosecution, evidently instituted to gratify the malignant disposition of Armstrong, late Secretary of War, and intended to transfer the blame of the disgraceful and disastrous campaign of 1813, from those with whom it ought to rest, to the shoulders of a meritorious but unfortunate officer; verifying a remark of Cicero's that "Parvi sunt foris arma, nisi est consilium domi."

Valor is of little use in the field, if there be not wisdom in the cabinet.

PITTSBURGH
Manhattan School,

FOR

YOUNG LADIES & GENTLEMEN

MR. LOOMIS, respectfully returns thanks to his patrons for their liberal patronage since the commencement of his School in this place, and informs them and the public that he continues to teach both sexes Reading, Penmanship analytically, English Grammar, English Composition, Geography, with the use of the Globes and Maps, Drawing of Maps, Bookkeeping, the Languages, &c.

The system of Education adopted in this School, will be that which is pursued in the celebrated Manhattan School, in the city of New-York, conducted by Mr. A. Picket, its successful founder; and which is acknowledged by men of the first literary reputation to be one of the best conducted Schools, in that city or in the United States. Here, about five hundred children of both sexes, comprising some of the best families in the city, constantly attend and are taught in such a manner as does the greatest honor to the teacher, and results in the happiest consequence to the pupils. It is of the utmost importance to teach children in such a manner that they will understand what they learn, and know how to apply it to the active pursuits of life. To give them words without accustoming them to attach some definite meaning to them, is, like blindfolding a man and commanding him to find a certain object; every effort leads him astray and renders him more uncertain of its attainment, so children if their minds are burdened with knowledge without understanding, find themselves uninterested in the pursuit, of course their progress in acquiring it will be but small: they must be brought to love learning if we would expect ever to teach them to good purpose, for the mind always eagerly embraces that which it previously loves.

In this School every requisite attention will be paid to the learning and amiable deportment of the pupils, and no labour will be thought too arduous to form the young mind for future usefulness and respectability in society. The education of youth is difficult and requires unwearied attention and experience, for no man is born a teacher, it is an occupation which requires many years practice to become a proficient in the business. To his many years experience in teaching an extensive School and unwearied diligence, the subscriber looks for public patronage, pledging himself to a conscientious discharge of the duties incumbent on a teacher, he with confidence solicits the patronage of the public.

For terms of Tuition, References, &c. please to apply at the School Room, over Mr THOMAS ALGEO's Store, Market Street.

N. B. Young Ladies will be taught plain and ornamental Needle Work, in a separate apartment, by Mrs. Loomis.

Morning Tuition will commence on the 1st of May, for Penmanship, from 6 to 8 o'clock, at Six Dollars a quarter, payable in advance.

Doctor CHISHOLMS,

Anti-Bilious Pills,

OF A QUALITY

Superior to any thing of the kind ever offered as a

GENERAL MEDICINE,

IN THIS COUNTRY,

Now prepared from a recipe of the celebrated Dr. Chisholm, who, from a long residence in the West-India islands, has been enabled to favor the world with the most complete history, and most approved methods of curing all the BILIOUS DISEASES of those warm climates

This extraordinary medicine, which now for the first time is finding its way into general practice, has properties in the highest degree superior to the mercurial nostrums so frequently recommended by the name of Anti-Bilious Pills. The extraordinary powers of this medicine as a solvent and evacuant of bile, is without example; never producing debility, or injuring the health, in the smallest degree, of the most delicate child, or weakly female.

The BILIOUS HEAD-ACHE, so much complained of in this country, and in the neighbourhood of rivers, is often removed by a single dose, which, to a strong man, is only five pills, and to a weakly woman, three. The same dose will generally remove the most excrutiating pains of the cholic, like a charm, by abusing the bile to pass downwards in the course of an hour or two.

Two or three Pills taken an hour before dinner, and repeated every third day, will effectually remove those diseases arising from flatulency and indigestion, and by persevering in the use of them for a considerable time, the appetite will be improved, and strength and vigor will return.

Two Pills taken at bed time, with a cup of penny-royal tea, and repeated every second night, will effectually remove Rheumatic pains, wherever seated.

A single Pill, taken every fourth hour with a cup of flax-seed tea, will cure Pleurisy, promote expectoration, and relieve coughs and colds.

In CONSUMPTIVE CASES and diseases of the liver, no medicine ever yet discovered, has been known to perform such cures. Two Pills, taken every third morning, will be found sufficient, unless costiveness prevails; in which case, the dose may be increased according to the strength or constitution.

The Dysentery, Croup, and Summer Complaint on children, are soon relieved by a few doses. A single Pill to a child of 6 years old, and the dose increased according to their strength and age.

In Asthmatic or Phthisical cases, where the laborious breathing and great oppression, with faintings, are fast sinking the patient to the brink of the grave, a few Pills, taking one every hour, with fennel or pepper-mint tea, will often enable the patient to walk about in a few hours.

Mineral Waters.

THE subscribers respectfully inform the public, that they have commenced making SODA and SELTZER WATERS, for the season, and having been at considerable expence in procuring ice, they flatter themselves they will meet with that encouragement due to the establishment. The qualities of these waters are so well known that it is scarcely necessary to enumerate them. It must be observed, however, that they are recommended by the most eminent physicians in this country, in all cases of debility: they particularly tend to strengthen the stomach, promote appetite and digestion; as an agreeable and pleasant drink they are unequalled; their exhilirating qualities being such as to supercede the necessity of spiritous liquors; they are therefore particularly suited to females whose delicate constitutions require a moderate stimulous without impairing health. The Soda Water operates as a mild cathartic, and is peculiarly suited to persons of costive habits. The price of tickets is 50 cents per dozen being the same as in Philadelphia and New York; each ticket entitles the bearer to a half pint tumbler of water. Persons residing at a distance can have it put up in bottles.

AVERY & VAN ZANDT,

Wood between Front & Second Streets.

April 15, 1815.

We, the subscribers, having examined the Mineral Waters prepared by Messrs. Avery & Van Zandt, are of opinion that they are equal in quality to any made in the U. States, and therefore recommend them to the public, in all cases above described.
